My name is Susan. I am ten. I live in Banff. Banff is a small village in Banff National Park in Alberta (Canada), by the Rocky Mountains.

It is very cold and we have lots of snow in winter. I love it! I like playing in the snow and making a snowman.

I also love skiing in the mountains or skating on the lakes when they're frozen. I also adore hiking with my grandparents so I'm not scared.

Stop!
Don't move!
Go back slowly!

Just now, we are walking up the mountains towards the lake. Hush... Listen... What's that noise? Oh dear! It's the roar of a grizzly bear! It's so scary! What can we do?

"Don't worry! Don't run, just go back slowly and calmly," says Grandpa softly.

"You're right! The bear is leaving! Great! We are safe now!", Susan says.

Be careful!
Skating on the lake is dangerous.

But we must be careful hiking in the mountains and skating on the lakes, too. It can be dangerous! You can fall into the water if the surface cracks.
